Some Things are Forever . . . .

"This grand show is eternal. It is always sunrise somewhere; the dew is never all dried at once; a shower is forever falling; vapor is ever rising. Eternal sunrise, eternal sunset, eternal dawn and gloaming, on sea and continents and islands, each in turn, as the round earth rolls."

John Muir

“ . . . He leadeth me beside the still waters . . . ”

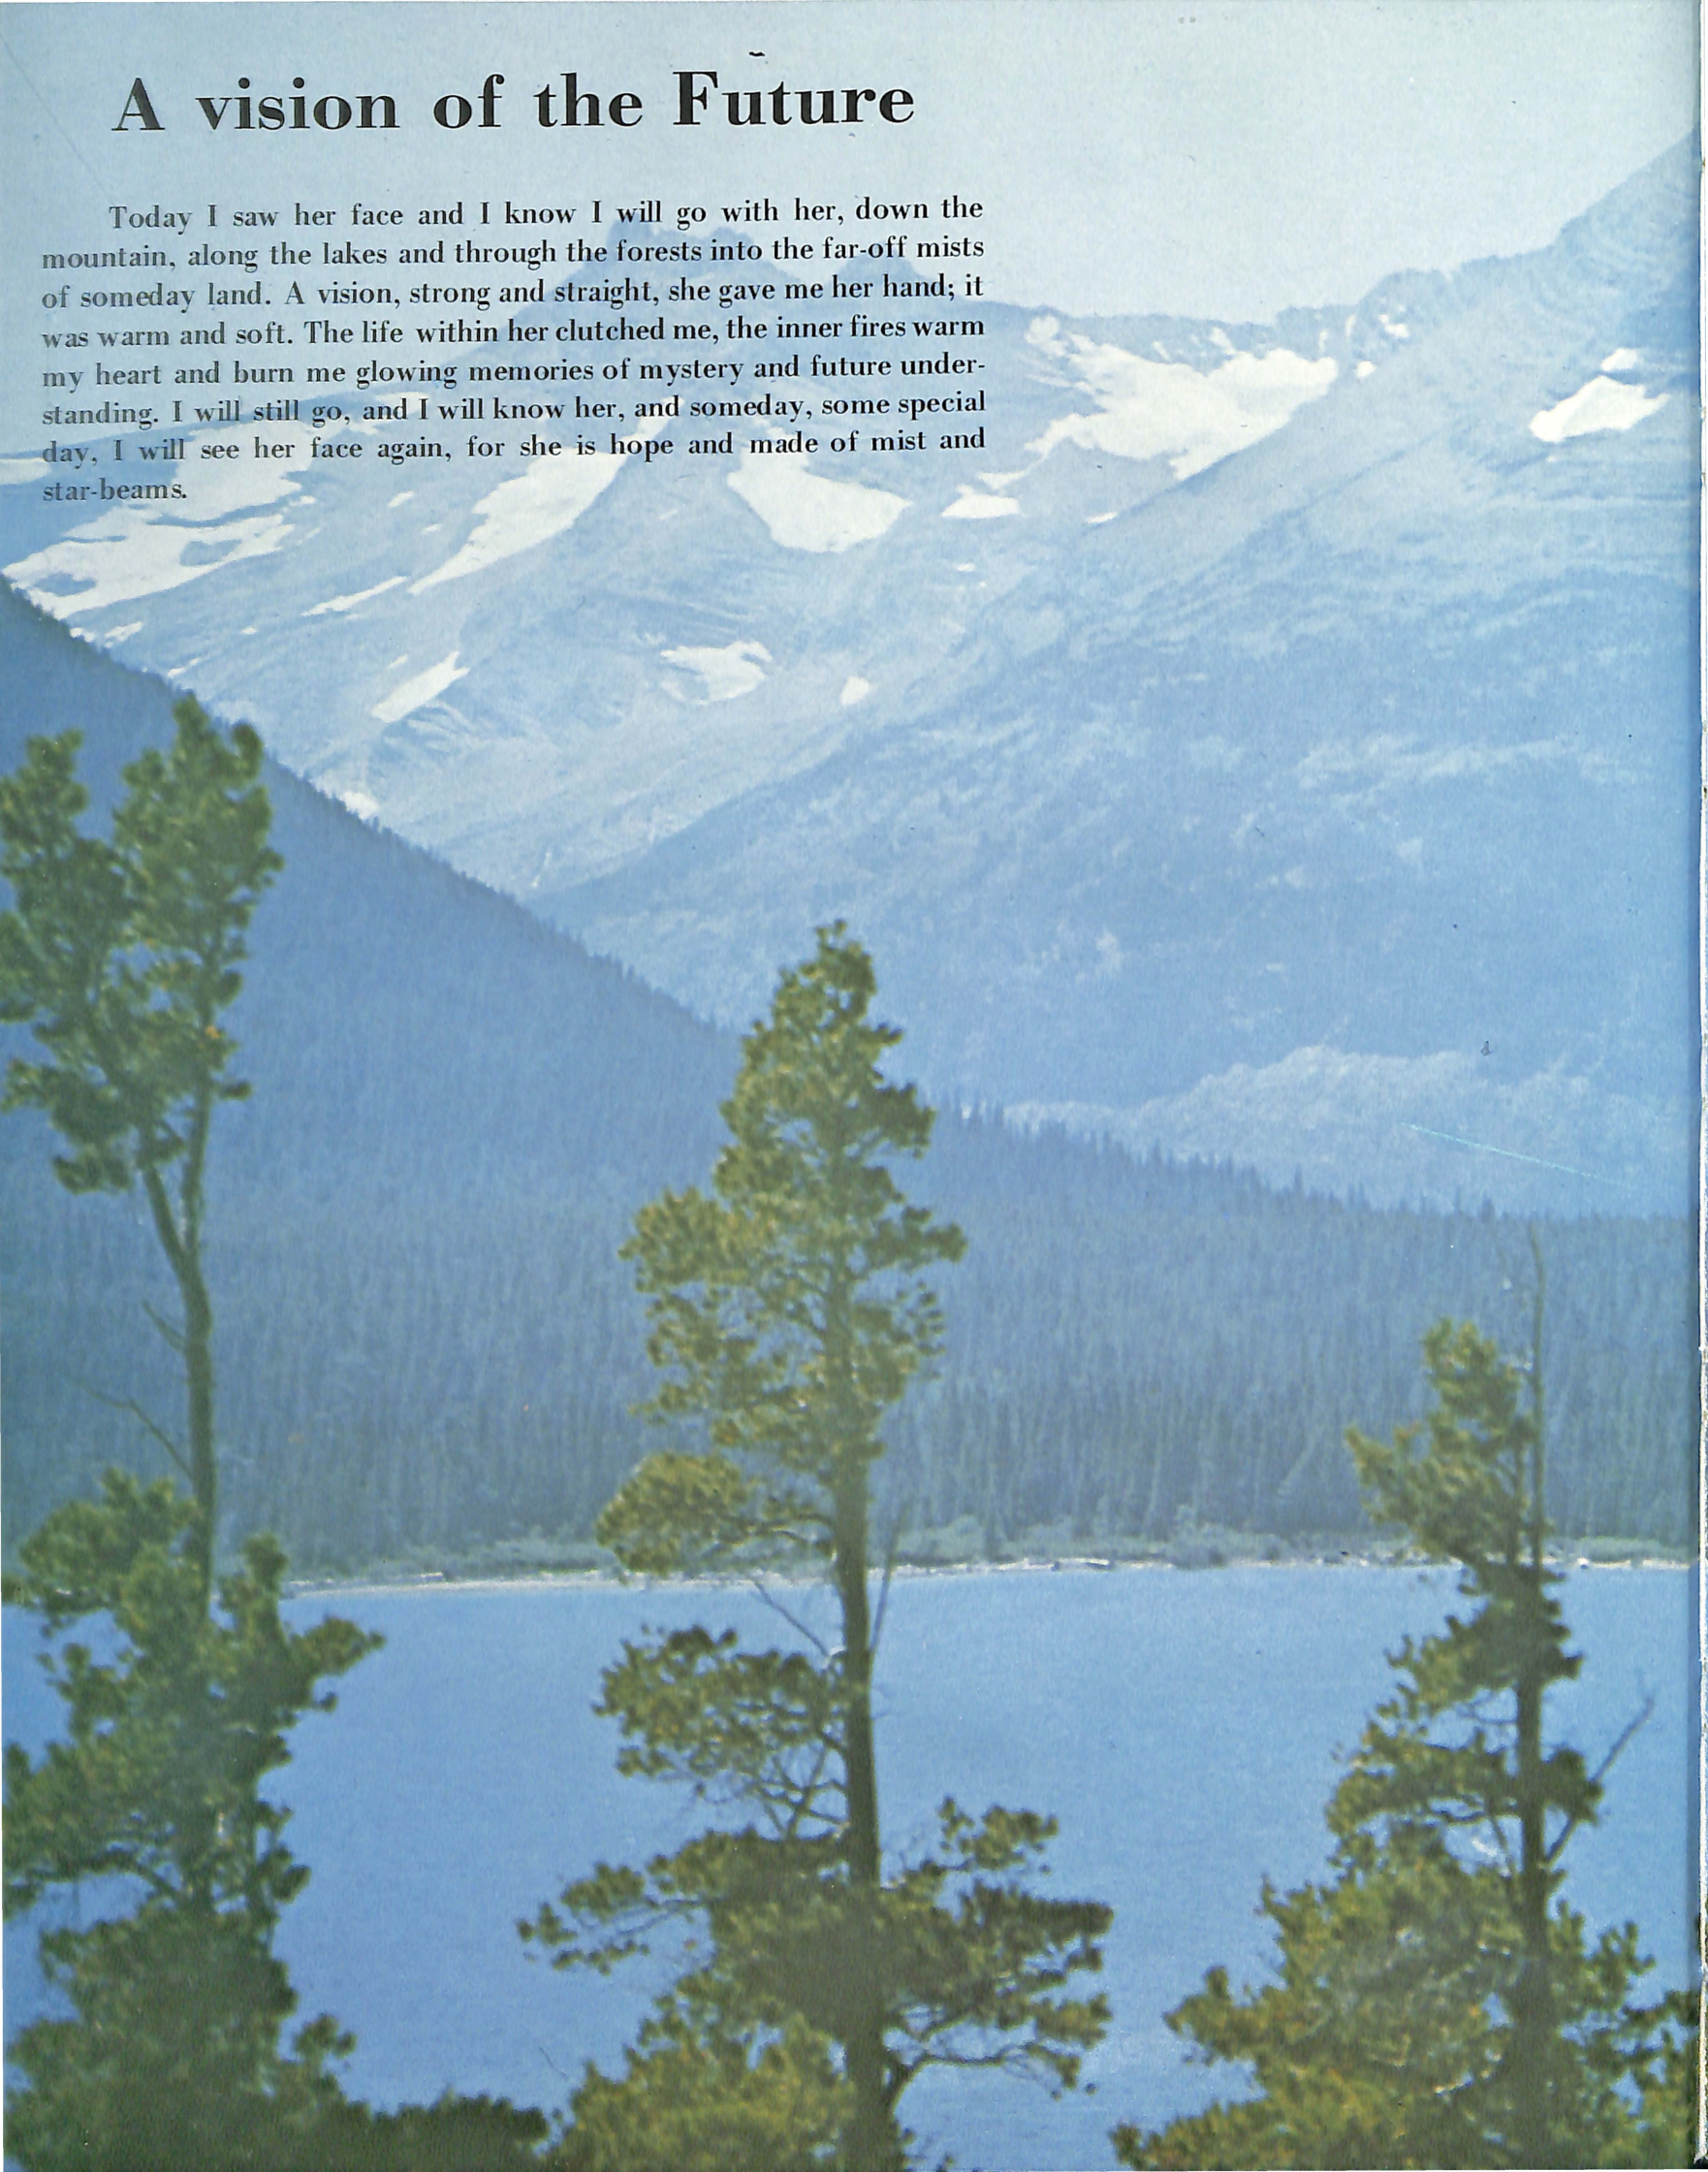

I search for something down every road of life. I ought to have known I could never find it until I looked at myself in the waters of a clear lake. All of the things I wanted but could never find are in that reflection, they are inside of me and inside of you. You have to take the face out of the water and put it back on your head. After all, you know the real mountains are standing on the shoreline. All of the things I was searching for were within me, waiting, to be found.

A vision of the Future

Today I saw her face and I know I will go with her, down the mountain, along the lakes and through the forests into the far-off mists of someday land. A vision, strong and straight, she gave me her hand; it was warm and soft. The life within her clutched me, the inner fires warm my heart and burn me glowing memories of mystery and future understanding. I will still go, and I will know her, and someday, some special day, I will see her face again, for she is hope and made of mist and star-beams.

Where man is little and God is great.

There is not one annoying thought overhanging my mind. This has been a feast day. My mind is like the Autumn moon, a clear pool, utterly free from muddiness. "Plants, animals, birds, rocks, gardens, magnificent clouds, thunderstorms, rain, hail, all have blessed me!"

"Oh, those vast, calm, measureless, mountain days . . . in whose light everything seems equally divine, opening a thousand windows to show us God."

Indeed there is nothing to which it can be compared.

“ . . . purple mountains majesty . . . ”

The mountains stand with hunched shoulders against the weather and their spines arch as their lonely peaks scrape against the wind. I love this country. Autumn comes early in the high country and if you look to the North into the colors of fall you can see winter just around the bend.

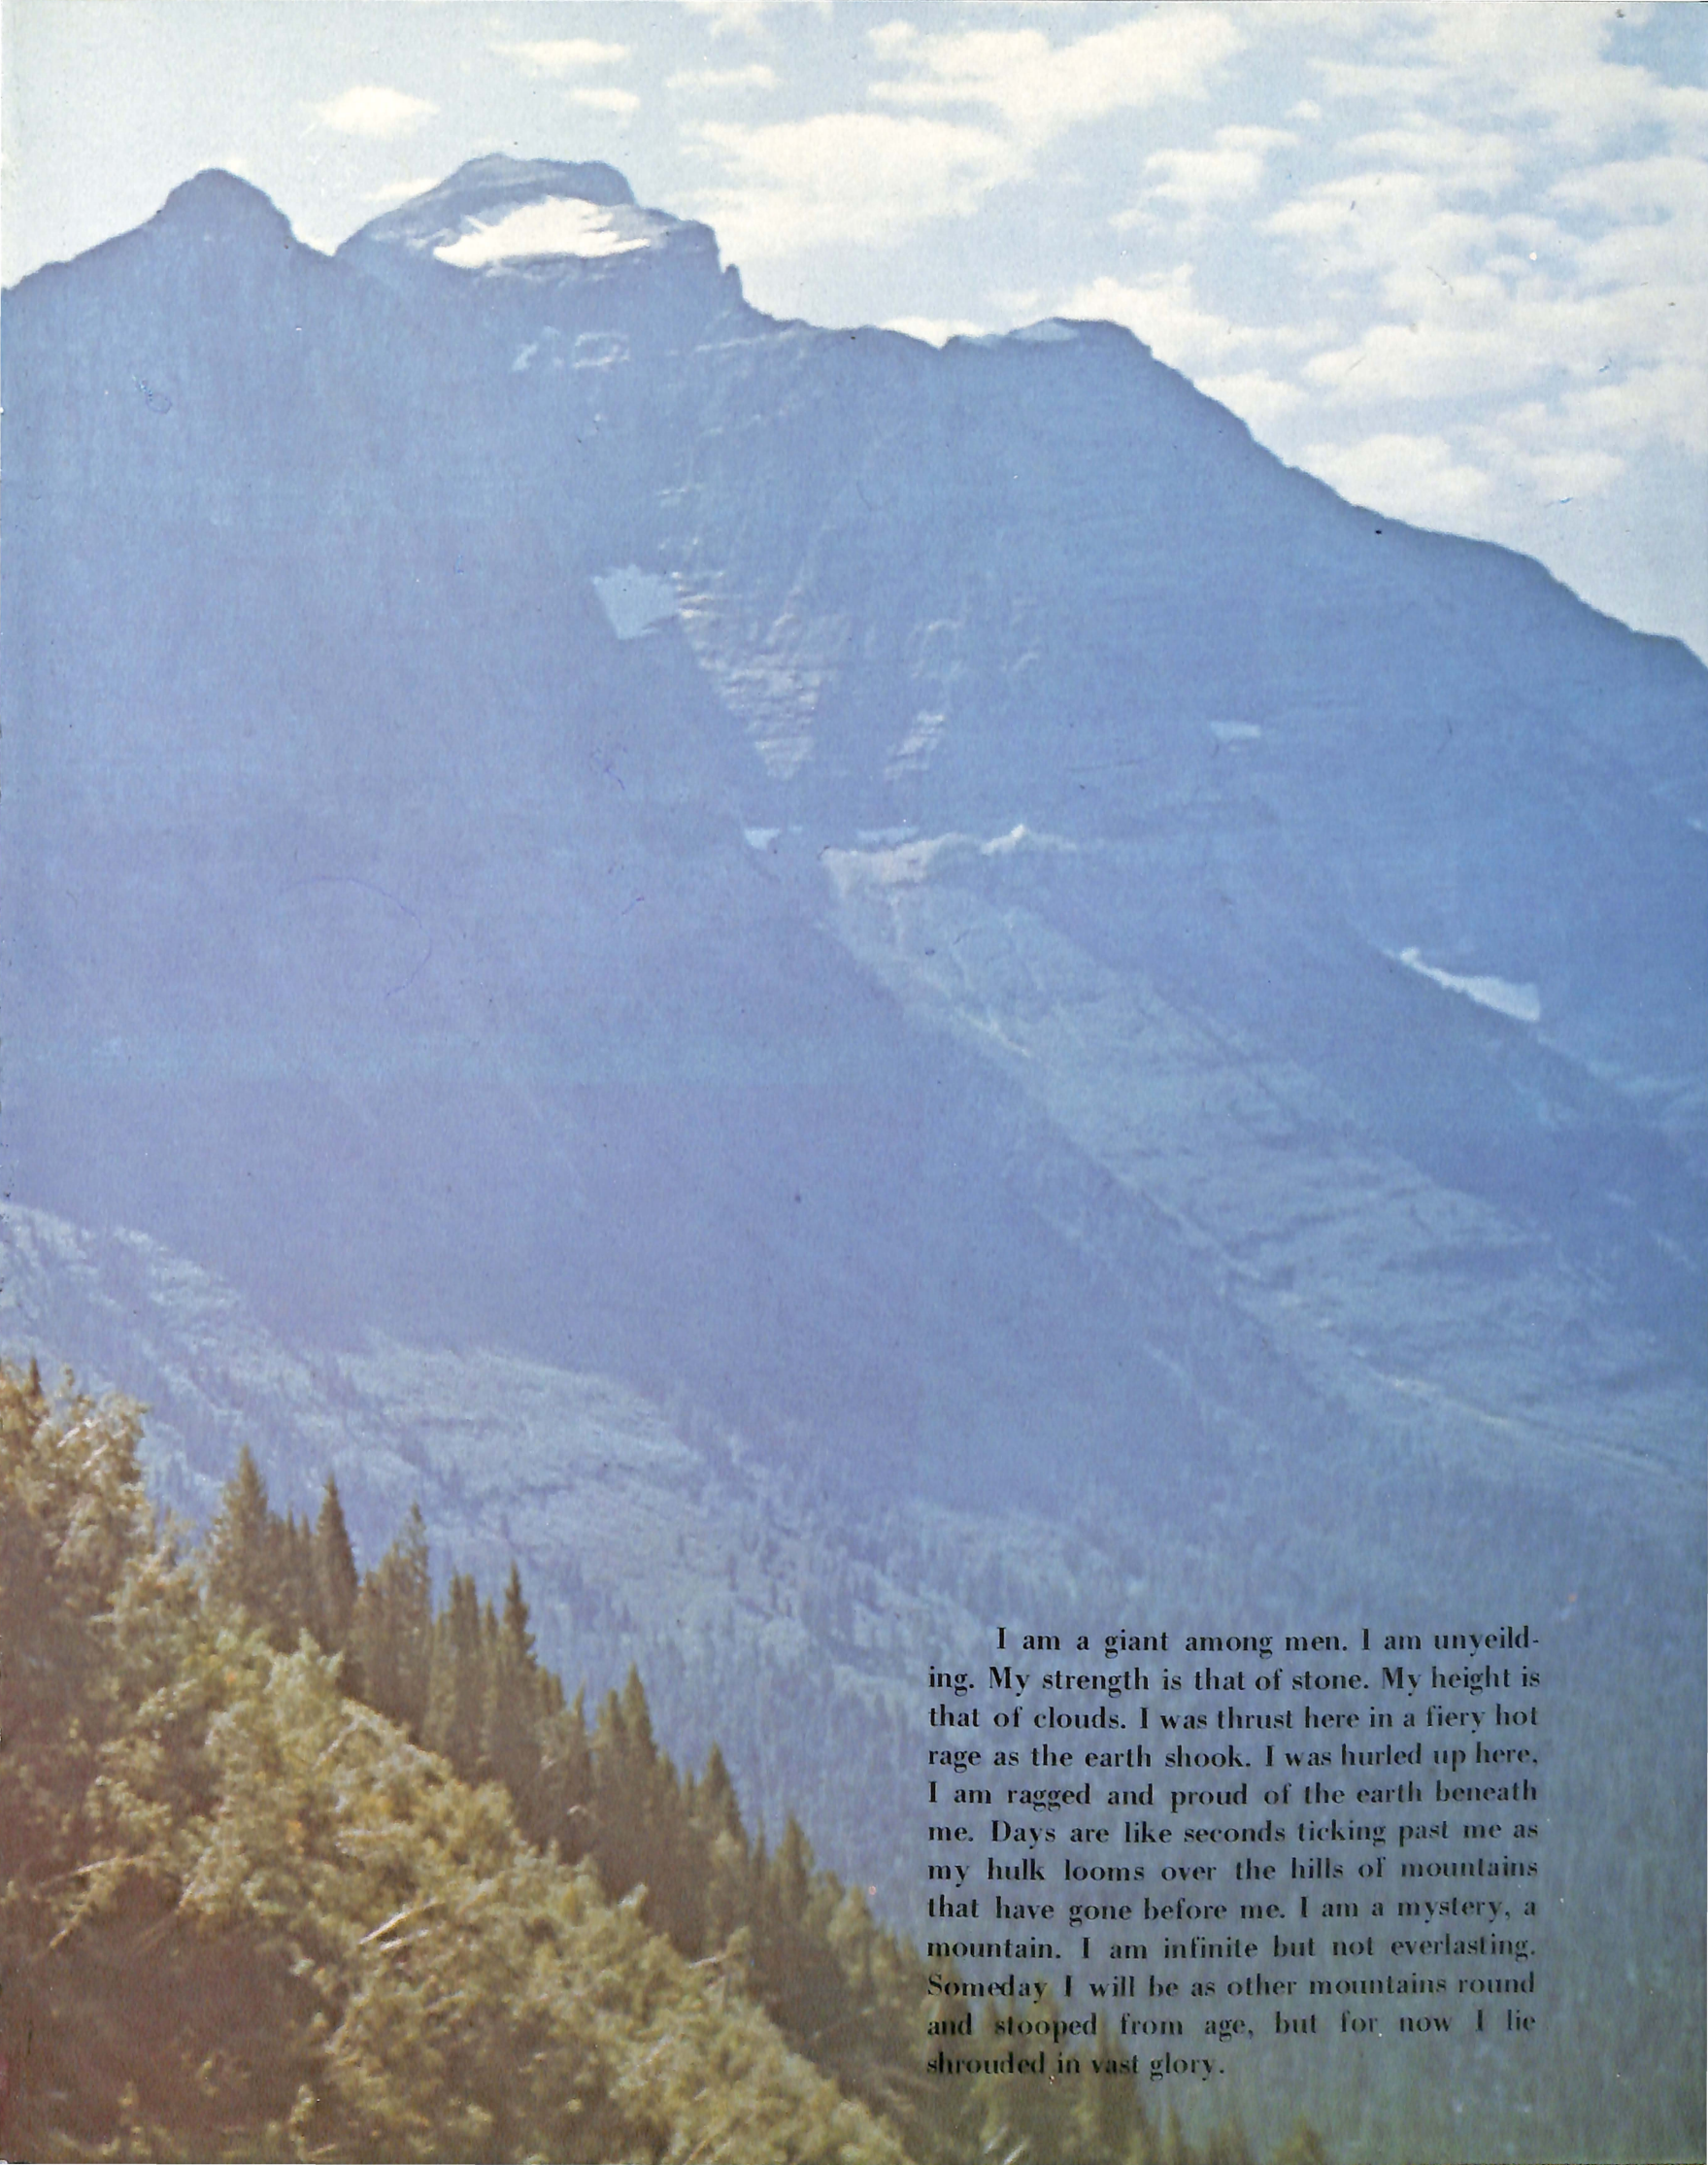

Here you can see that the universe would be incomplete without man but it would also be incomplete without the smallest transmicroscopic creature that dwells beyond our conceitful eyes and knowledge.

Mountains — layer cakes of history with environmental frosting.

I am a giant among men. I am unyielding. My strength is that of stone. My height is that of clouds. I was thrust here in a fiery hot rage as the earth shook. I was hurled up here, I am ragged and proud of the earth beneath me. Days are like seconds ticking past me as my hulk looms over the hills of mountains that have gone before me. I am a mystery, a mountain. I am infinite but not everlasting. Someday I will be as other mountains round and stooped from age, but for now I lie shrouded in vast glory.

With the ringing cheers and waving banners
the fans create a pedestal, a throne of glory where they inevitably place a hero, someone to worship. Thoughts of school and honor and victory . . . these thoughts glimmer in the minds of those traveling the ways to the throne.
The experiences of glory road include those of fear and pain and defeat. But upon receiving the crown, the memories of fear and pain fade, and only those of victory remain.

The thrill of competition . . . .

Under the direction of Coaches Earl Bingamon and Jim Gilley, the J.V. team made an excellent showing this year with a 6 — 3 — 0 record after an impressive season. Tommy Overton was chosen Back of the Year. For Lineman of the Year the competition was so close that co - winners were chosen, the award being shared by Roberto Seldon and Randy Haynes.

Armijo is known for its fine defense, and this year's J.V. proved itself with the showings of such players as Defensive Captain Doug Martin, Defensive end Trip Gordon and Defensive back Jose Correa. The equally impressive offense, had Mike Timko standing out for his performance throughout the season. These and other players, with their fantastic team work gave the Junior Varsity Football team a winning season.

First Year Soccer

C'mon Mario Ibarra, shake a leg.

Soccer, a field sport originally from England, comes to Armijo High. To play, one need not have exceptional physical ability, just two legs to run with, and two feet to kick with.

The game is played on the ground by kicking the ball to either end of the field, and scoring a goal.

This year, being the first year, the team played rather well. Hope for the future is high. Most of the team will be here next year, for there are only three seniors on the team. So lets wish them luck.

The record this year is great, 18 wins, 6 losses. Coach Hopkins, hopes to do as well next year, or even better.

In the Delta League, the record was 8 wins, 2 losses. Giving the second place in the league to us. The two games that were lost, were to Davis, in the last minutes of each game.

Fun and Competition

Noel Figuero sets the play while Vivian Poole looks on.

"Gimmie, Gimmie!" says Patty Morris.

"I want my balloon back," cries Nancy Carr.

Connie Ebanez seems to be having fun playing with her spider.

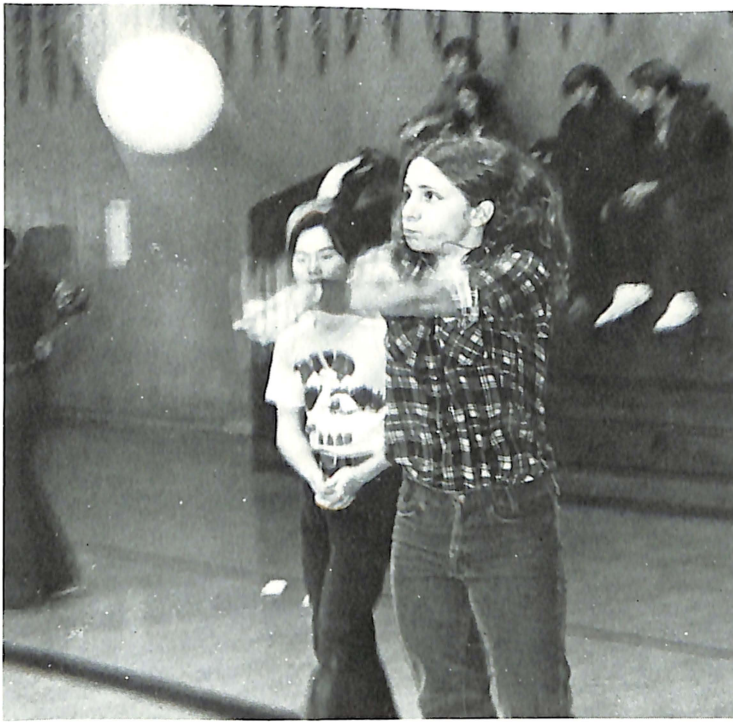

To La Tanya Rudolph, basketball is the name of the game.

Pam Baumgarten lets loose of a fast one.

Intermurals

G.A.S. and the boys athletics got together and came up with a program of lunchtime and after school intramural sports. This program is formed of coed teams that compete against one another in badminton, volleyball, and bowling.

Janet Khmashta swallows her gum during all the excitement.

Marianne Kuropatkin secretly falls in love with the net.

Mark Thompson wonders, "If I get a strike, will she still beat me?"

Determination is on the face of Ronnie Waslon.

CLASSES

The student, alone with his half-finished trig problems and illegible English notes, seems far separated from the spheres of shining ideals and timeless philosophies which seemingly motivate the dedicated professor of academics. Yet, in the same confusing trig problems and scrawled notes there must be a beginning for knowledge, knowledge gained through ability and incentive. This ability, this incentive, aided by shadows of guidance and leadership, transforms the hopeful into the purposeful, and the majestic realms of greatness are not so far away.

The glimmer of wisdom . . . . .

Every day just gets a little shorter don't you think... Take a look around you and you'll see just what I mean...
People got to come together not just out of fear... Where do we go from here.

Don't you feel a change a coming... from another side of time, breaking down the walls of silence, lifting shadows from your mind... placing back the missing mirrors that before you couldn't find... filling mysteries of emptiness that yesterday's left behind.

Just on the borderline of the academic lies the extra-curricular — the world where the required is but a mark to surpass;
where toil often goes unrewarded; where the combined efforts of few or many culminate in a concrete goal — project or event. The pictures cannot always be painted as well as the dreams; but there are people who try.
These people are the worthwhile, the creators of fellowship, limited only by their own ambition.

The scenes include groups of students dancing, posing, and socializing. Some frames show students in formal attire, while others show them in more casual clothing. The background features indoor settings with tables, chairs, and decorations. The film strip is labeled "KODAK SAFETY FILM" and "KODAK TRI X PAN FILM".

Becky Chamberlain and Shirley Howard found mass confusion at scramble registration.

Scramble Registration

One week before the 73-74 school year opened, Armijo students took part in a new way of registering for their classes. This registration is called a scramble.

Each student who had registered earlier, received a trial schedule at the scramble. If they were satisfied, they kept it, but if they weren't, some rearranging had to be done to get the classes they wanted to fit in with the periods the classes were offered.

For some, the registration was a hassle, while it was a little easier for others.

Homecoming Victory 1973 — 74

Even the events that preceeded the 12 — 0 football homecoming victory over Davis could not subdue the enthusiasm of the Armijo students. Despite the controversy which left many wondering just what homecoming is all about, an overflow crowd was on hand to root for the team that evening.

Opposite page top – Such happy faces! Armijo can't help but be proud.

Waiting anxiously to be called are Georgie Hall, Debbie Wilridge and Theresa Permenter. The Freshman class worked hard on their float and can be very proud of their efforts.

Armijo Fans cheer a 12 to 0 Homecoming Victory.

For weeks every action was directed towards one day; Homecoming Friday, October 19. At noon the students trooped to the gym and voted for homecoming queen and attendants. Many students spent the rest of the day wondering whether Armijo would elect its first male attendant, and left even more wondering about the relevancy of the whole thing. He lost, but it marks a definite change from homecomings past, and the consequences may be felt for years to come.

Weeks in advance work was begun on the floats for the homecoming parade, and they turned out to be the best in years. Homecoming week, October 15 – 19, had the spirit club proclaiming Little Kids' Day, Rag Day, 1800's Day, Monster Day and Color Day.

Homecoming '73-'74

Miss Liz Moseley was chosen to be the 1973-74 Football Homecoming Queen. It really should come as no surprise, for she seems to be known by almost every student at Armijo.

Liz is active in extra-curricular activities, notably the G.A.S. and Spirit Club. She was captain of the newly formed drill team and was scorekeeper for track and wrestling.

Besides athletics, her hobbies are drawing and designing clothing, sewing, and reading.

Liz plans to become either a fashion designer or a teacher.

Liz Moseley reacts with tears of joy upon hearing her name called.

'73 Frosh — Soph Scramble

On the afternoon of September 13, 1973 the Freshmen and Sophomores got together creating one of the funniest memories of the year.

There was plenty of mud and laughter for all involved, including the innocent spectators. A great display of spirit was shown by both classes.

The scramble was held at Armijo's new section, THE ANNEX. Some of the events which took place were: the balloon toss, a three-legged race, doing sommersaults through the mud and the deciding event, tug of war, ended the battle in a tie.

All of this fun and teamwork go together to make each class stronger and help each individual feel more a part of Armijo.

"Hey everybody, let's dive in," yells Donna Wallace.

"Come Dance With Me"

C. P. Krunt was the musical entertainment for Sadie Hawkins. But don't think that was all there was. Many funny and we might say strange things happened. Marrin' Sam was portrayed by Mr. Gilley who held easter lillies in his hands. One person was so impressed he went back three times. This fun filled evening officially started at 8:30 at the school gym. But many couples went out to dinner. Many couples had matching shirts which created an atmosphere around the whole evening.

Refreshments were available in the little gym for those who were hungry or even for those who ducked out on dancing!

Once the dance ended many wished it could have lasted forever.

The girls prove themselves number one!

Friday, February 1, Armijo students were treated to the third annual Boy-Girl Rally. Each pep squad member found a male and attempted to teach him how to run a rally. The results were not very encouraging.

As usual the rally was nothing but a front for a battle between the sexes. Although they did their best to protect their masculinity, the boys found themselves outdone when it came to switching roles, and the girls emerged superior.

Armijo's women faculty competed against the Fairfield women faculty on January 17, 1974 in a friendly competitive game of volleyball, which was played in the Fairfield High Gymnasium.

It was a well-played game by both school faculty members, but the Armijo women seemed to "out volley" the Fairfield women in the end with the score standing at Armijo three, Fairfield two.

After the game a dance was held in the Annex gym. Runnin' Strut provided the musical entertainment for the evening. The 1974 Basketball Homecoming shall be remembered for many years to come.

Basketball

Homecoming '73-74

Armijo Basketball Homecoming Queen for 1973-74 was Miss Donna Fulk.

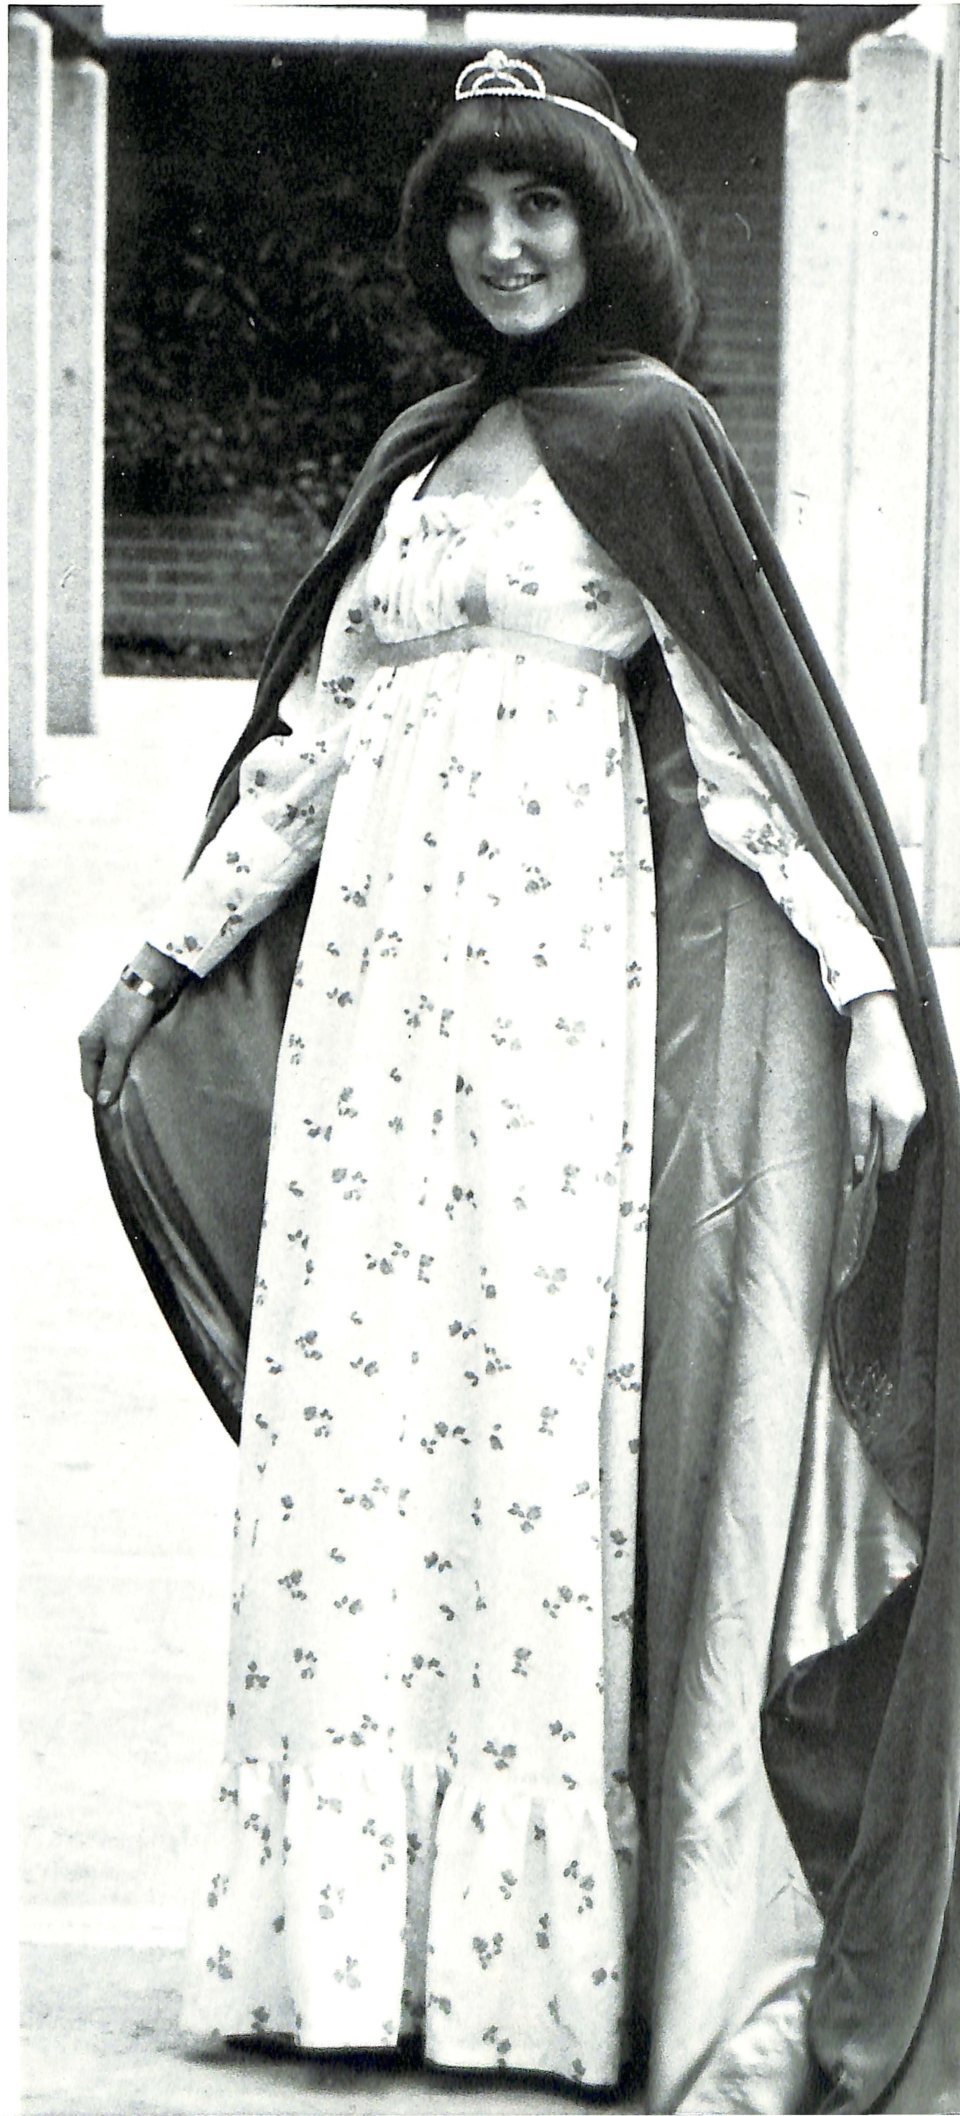

Involved in many activities, Donna belonged to the 'S' Club and was in Spirit Club for three years, and was a member of the central committee in her junior and senior years.

Her hobbies are art, particularly ceramics, sewing, and tennis. Consequently she was a member of both the Tennis Team and the Craftsman Club.

Donna hopes to become either a pediatrician or a model.

C.P. Krunt supplied the music at the first annual Armijo ROTC Ball. It was held at the Travis Officers Club.

The ROTC queen and attendants chosen were Diana Mack-Queen, from Armijo, Laurie Hendrix-First Attendant, from Armijo and Karen Horstkoetter-Second Attendant, from Vanden.

Even though there was a 45 minute delay, those attending seemed to enjoy the ball. There were visitors from other squadrons. Gifts were presented to Sgt. McDade and Col. Matassa, watches in appreciation for all they have done for the ROTC program at Armijo.

Wednesday, February 20, a new experience in education was offered to Armijo students in the form of Career Day. After attending their first three periods students were given the opportunity to explore any one of thirty seminars on a wide range of careers. Hosted by the American Association of University Women, people from all walks of life, most of them from Fairfield and Suisun, spoke about their respective careers. The speakers were for the most part very good and all were open to questions from the students.

Student Government

Student government has been an active institution at Armijo since it was first introduced in 1903. It gives the student a voice in the management of the school and in the running of their own affairs. Most students seem to take for granted the institution that is government, or worse yet they ignore it completely, never realizing that they are one of few schools where students have a place where they can bring their complaints and ideas into the open.

The A.S.B. president is the most powerful voice that the students possess. He works directly with the administration and he also attends meetings of the board of education, making sure that the thoughts of the students are known to those who dictate school policy. Among his many duties it is his job to veto or approve all legislation passed by the student senate.

The Senate

There exists an open forum at Armijo where each class and every student has a voice. It is the student senate, where a voice can be heard in the shape of elected representatives. Students do have an equal say through their senators, and what is said does not echo unheard throughout endless hallways, it is recorded and listened to, and it can bring about changes that benefit the students.

Every class elects three senators at the start of each semester and these twelve meet daily to deal with the affairs of the student body. The vice president of the student body presides over the senate and meetings follow the procedures of the United States Senate. The A.S.B. secretary keeps minutes of the meetings and handles the immense amount of paperwork generated by the senate. Mr. Aldridge acts as advisor.

The senate, among other duties, controls the budget of the student body. Armijo is one of a very small number of schools where students actually control their own money.

Class Governments

At the start of the school year each class heads toward the polls to elect a class government consisting of a president, vice president, secretary, and central committee. This elite group is saddled with the task of giving some type of order and management to the activities of its respective class. They comprise the core of the class and reflect the best and the worst, the strength and weakness, the accomplishments and failures.

The central committee meets at least once each week, and is presided over by the class president, with the vice president taking over if the president is absent. The secretary keeps minutes of each meeting and handles all correspondence. For the most part the central committees are concerned with fund-raising activities, and also the planning and construction of a homecoming float. During their sophomore year the central committee chooses the company that will furnish class rings, as juniors they put on the Junior-Senior Prom, and as seniors plan Senior Skip Day and the senior trip.

The Court

Elections do not magically organize themselves, they must be planned and regulated in such a way that all students have an equal chance to vote. The job of conducting all elections at Armijo falls to the student court. The court consists of five members who serve for the entire school year; one member nominated by each central committee, and a chief justice nominated by the A.S.B. president. They also settle disputes and determine whether laws passed by the senate are keeping with the provisions of the school constitution.

Mascots and Pom-Pon Girls

Each year eighteen girls are elected by the student body to promote school spirit. To run for the office of pep squad you must accumulate fifty points in Spirit Club and be a good standing student of Armijo High.

Once elected the job begins. Endless hours of work in the summer and after school are all visible in routines and rally skits.

Pep squad may be the most enjoyable student body office, but certainly not the easiest.

ORGANIZATIONS

People helping people. Sharing each others ideas and putting them to use. Ideals that direct ideals. Morals that control actions. Feelings that direct emotion. These are the qualities of people who care. These the directing signs on the highway of life.

The people on Armijo's campus possess the qualities within themselves, but sometimes it takes someone else to bring it out. Our Organizations were developed for this purpose. The purpose of bringing an individual's interests to the surface and then putting them to use. For, without the inner existence the outer person could not survive.

Interests directed toward one common goal . . .

Nature Study Area

This year has seen a new development in the science department at Armijo, a nature study area constructed between C and D wings. Students spent their spare time during the summer fencing and roofing the area, after which earth was brought in from Suisun Valley and a stream was constructed running the length of the area. Animals and plants are raised to allow students to observe and study them in a natural environment. When completed the area will reflect a creek biome of the type native to this region.

FACULTY

When one considers a school, it is the students that usually come to mind. Attention is most often placed on their activities and achievements. How, and why, these come to mind, is forgotten. The purpose of a school is education. It is made possible by the dedication of the faculty.

If the term "student-teacher relations" is used, it might be defined as conflict, or at the best, a hostile truce. The administration is thought to be unfeeling, though deep down inside they really care. The office staff must deal with a mile of red tape to accomplish anything. Counselors never seem to have enough time. A teacher may have to, against his own will, fail a student. This is what makes our staff what it is.

Reaching out and caring . . . . .

The Administration

Of all those in the faculty, those most foreign to the students are the members of the administration. Although dedicated and driven by great concern for students, their job forces them to be remote and aloof, cold and harsh. They are, however, individuals who are only trying to better our education, and that should be first in mind when judging them.

Mr. Tucker
Assistant Principal

Mr. Tucker has been a member of the teaching profession since 1952, when he graduated from Langston University in Oklahoma. He has master's degrees in both industrial arts and school administration. Mr. Tucker joined the administration two years ago in an effort to broaden his experience with young people. His goal is to deal more effectively with the problems in student attendance and control. His interests are tennis and stereo equipment.

Mr. Dillman
Principal

Originally a P.E. teacher, Mr. Dillman went on to teach the seventh grade. He was an assistant principal and then a principal at the junior high level before coming to Armijo. Mr. Cortese

Because he wanted to be an athlete, Mr. Cortese became a P.E. teacher. He took the job of Director of Student Activities because he wanted to see if he was right for administrative work, and also because it would be a new experience. It gives Mr. Cortese the opportunity to try out a few of his own ideas for improving the school. Married, he and his wife, Sharon, have three children; Christine, age 7, Lisa, age 5, and Jeffery, age 2. Mr. Cortese collects coins, and also enjoys hunting, fishing, and camping.

Board of Education

The administration does not have full control over all that takes place here at school. The administration is answerable to the Board of Education, which must give its approval before action takes place on many school activities.

The seven member board is elected by the general public. The members serve staggered terms of four years, with elections every two years. Board meetings are held every second and fourth Thursday of the month. Members choose their own president to run these meetings. He is usually a member with experience on the board and who shows leadership qualities. They also choose a vice-president, who presides over the meetings in the president's absence, and a clerk, who signs the minutes of the meetings and other special documents.

The Board of Education makes policy for the school district, although much of the policy is set by state law. For example, they approve all textbooks before they can be used, the length of the school day, the school calendar, and the amount of discipline at the schools. They also make the final decision over the hiring of teachers, and control the budget of the school district. Not all policy comes directly from the board. For example, when orientation became a required course, it was because the faculty suggested it. The board considered, and then approved it.

The Superintendent of Schools has the responsibility of making sure that the policies established by the Board of Education are carried out.

Custodians and Cooks

Behind the scenes, besides the office staff, there are those who work at Armijo. They do their job, and students are greatly unaware that it is even done. A student might look around the school and see messy classrooms, littered hallways, windows smeared with paint, and rest room walls covered with graffiti. Stop a minute and think that the student is responsible for all of this, and then stop and think how it would look without custodians to clean up.

The head custodian is Mr. George Stathoff, and he is the only one at school during the day. The others arrive to work after most students have left. The first shift of four works from three in the afternoon until eleven at night, when another four replace them and work until seven in the morning.

There are also the cooks, who receive the grumbling of an unappreciative student body. They do not choose what they serve, yet they only get complaints from students who always seem to eat it, whether they like it or not.

The unique commercial life of America . . . based on free enterprise and free thought, molded by generations of tradition, evolutionized by moments of invention. Guided by laws of supply and demand, the businessman and the customer have grown independent with new found buying power, and suddenly the teenager has become a potential customer to whom the businessman must appeal.

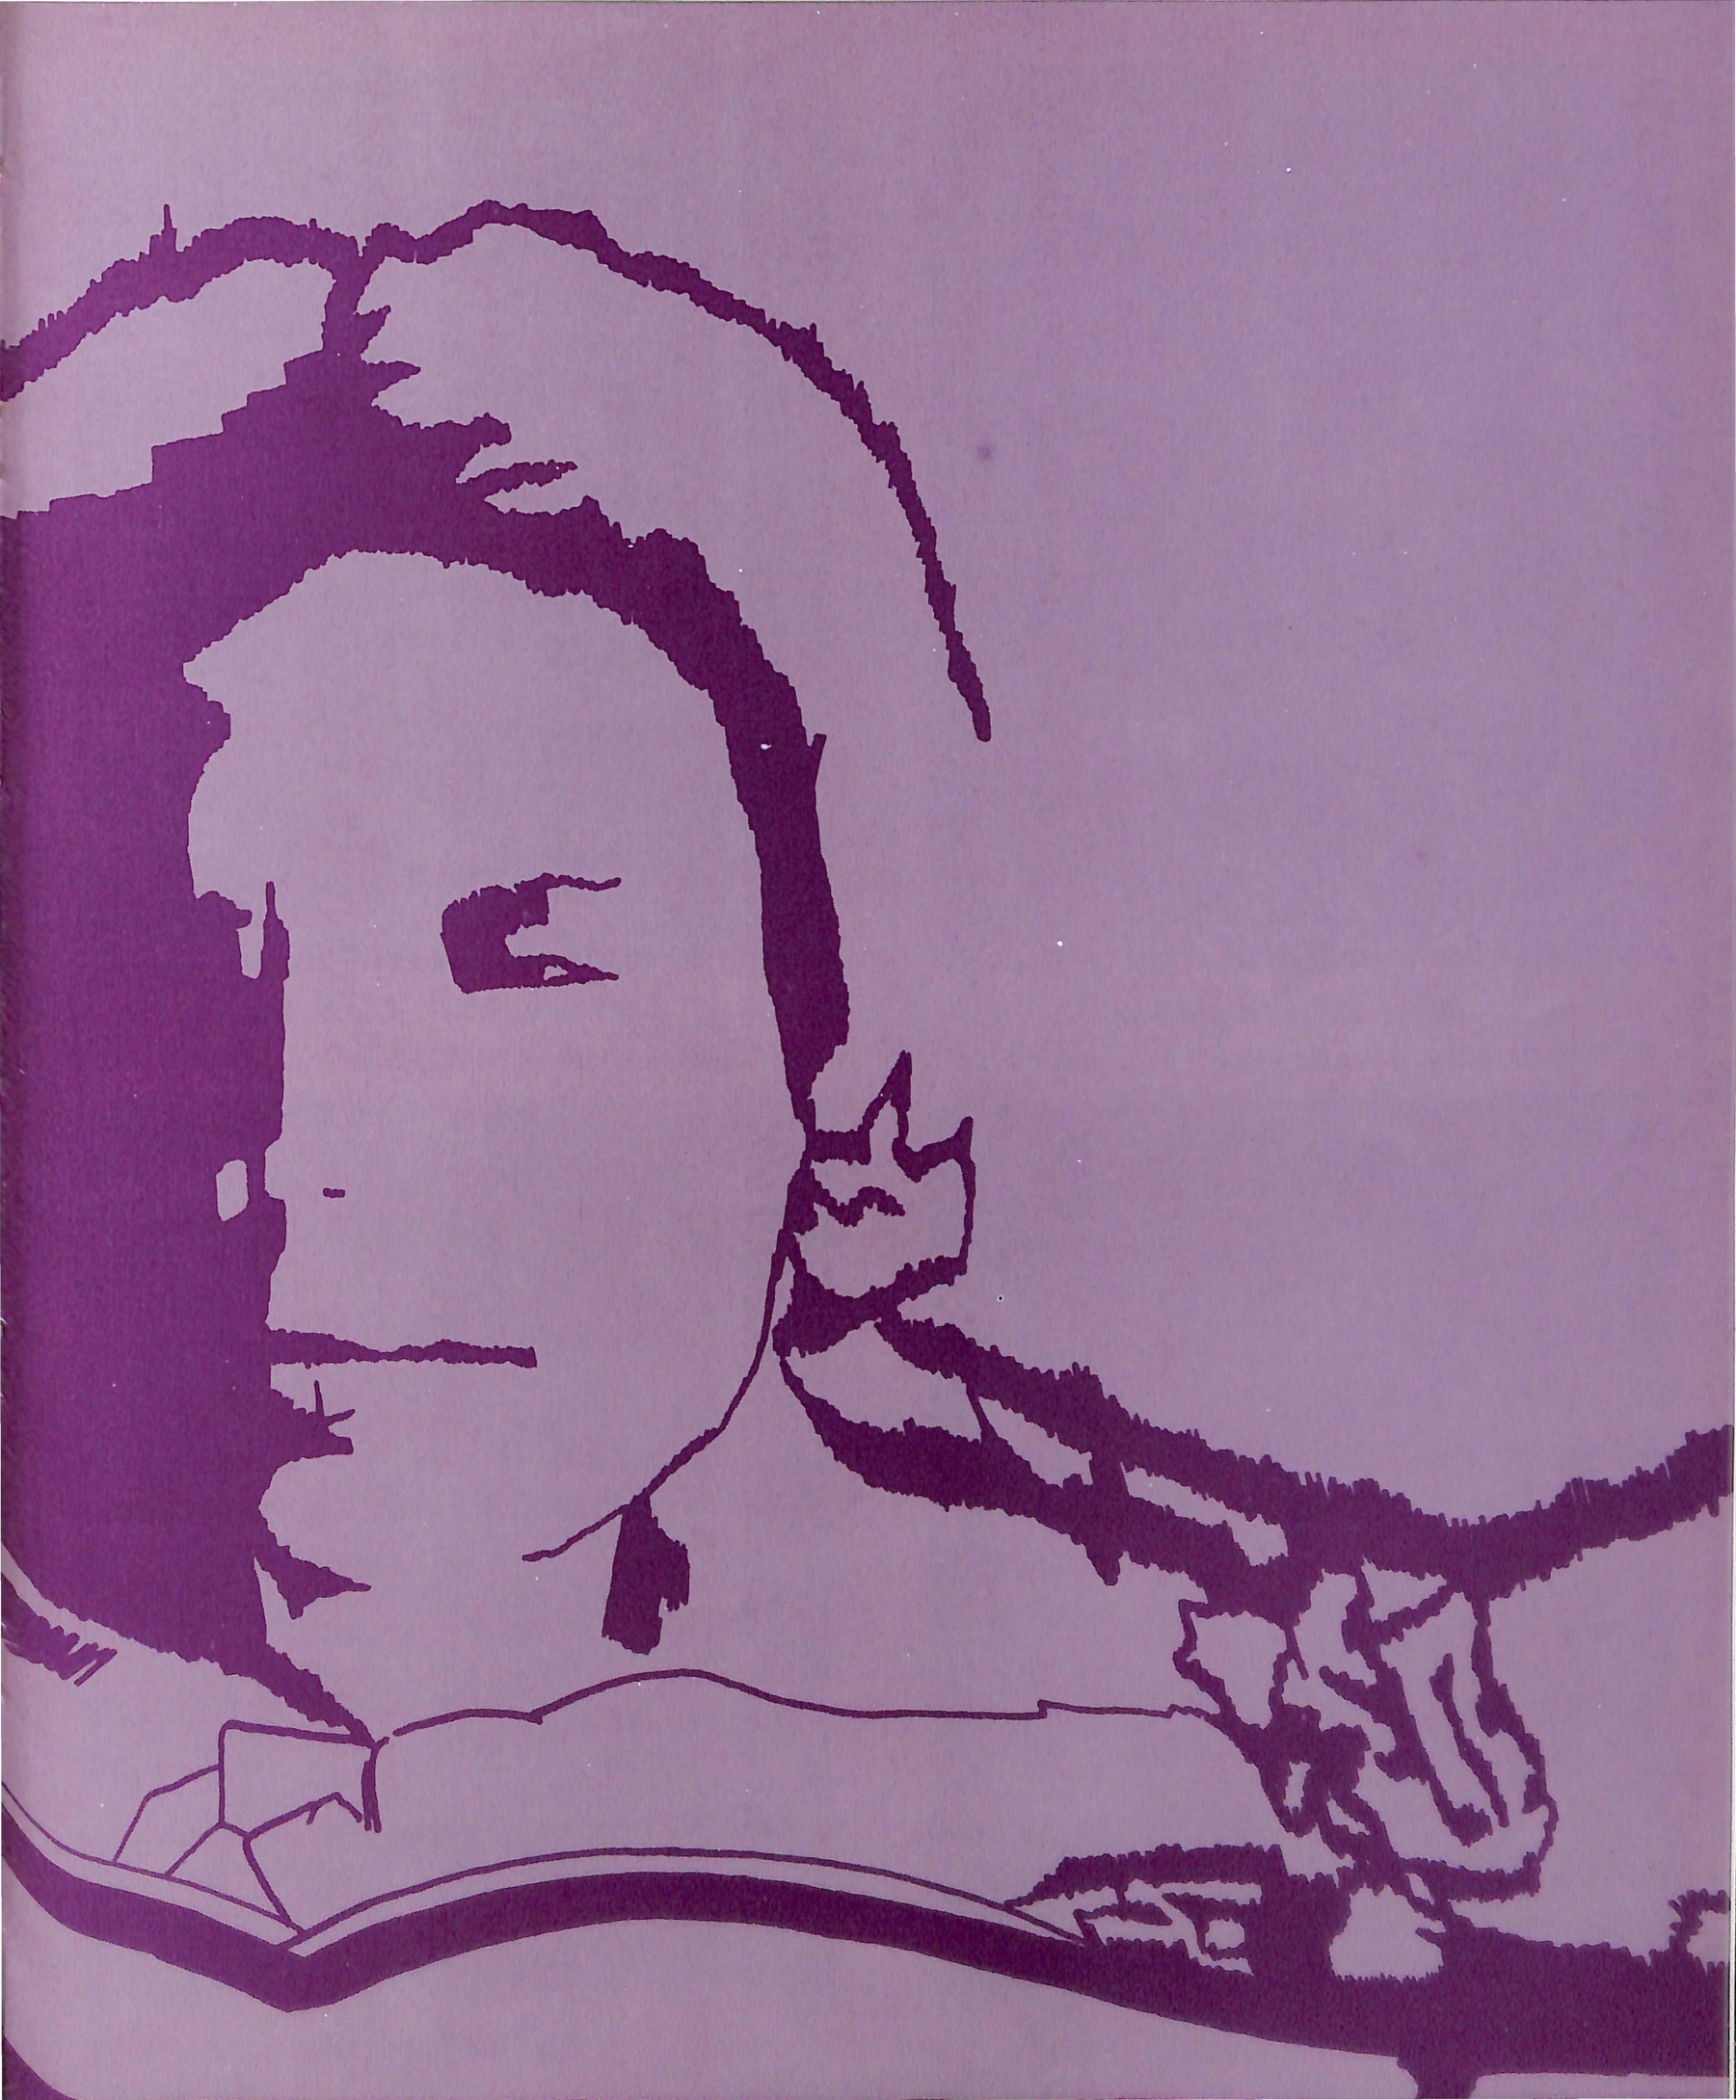

LaMezcla advertising provides a common ground of communication where the businessman may venture into the world of the young and appeal to their senses and tastes.

We at Armijo and particularly on the LaMezcla staff simply cannot emphasize our gratitude to the businesses, who without their support this book would have not been possible.

The relevance of commerce . . . . .

ENDING

With the dawn comes a new day and a new days' adventures. But with the sunset goes the light of the day and the confusion of night sets in. The memories of the day settle in the back of your mind and wait for a minute to come forth in voice.

As the school year draws to an end, we can not erase the memories held in it. We may leave with happiness or we may leave with sadness that all our memories are just memories. We can say that this year is ended, but we cannot say that it is forgotten.

*Like Columbus in the olden days,
We must gather all our courage,*

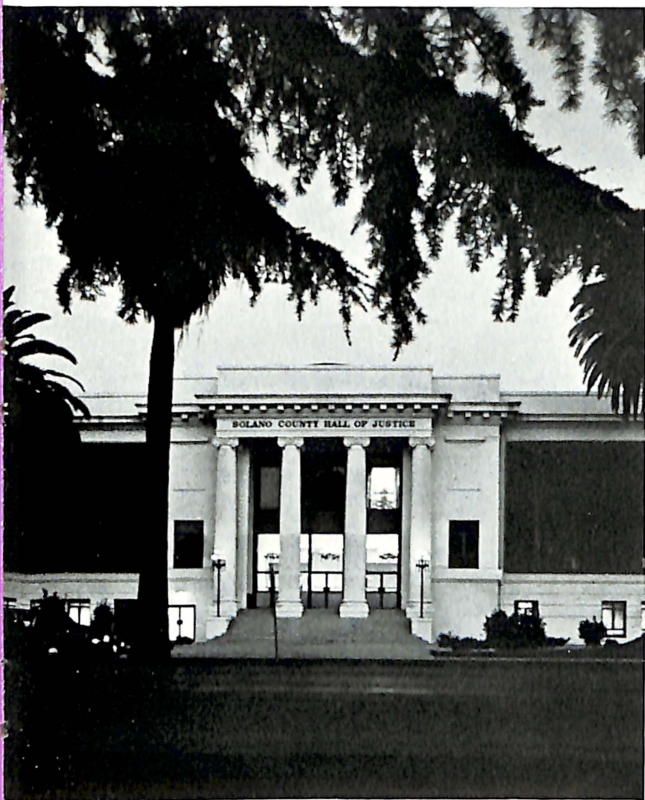

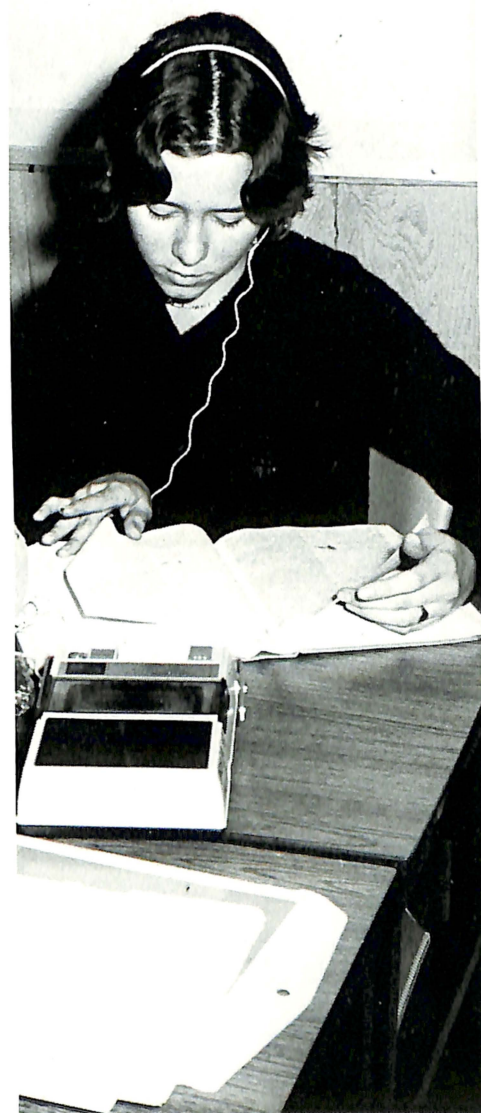

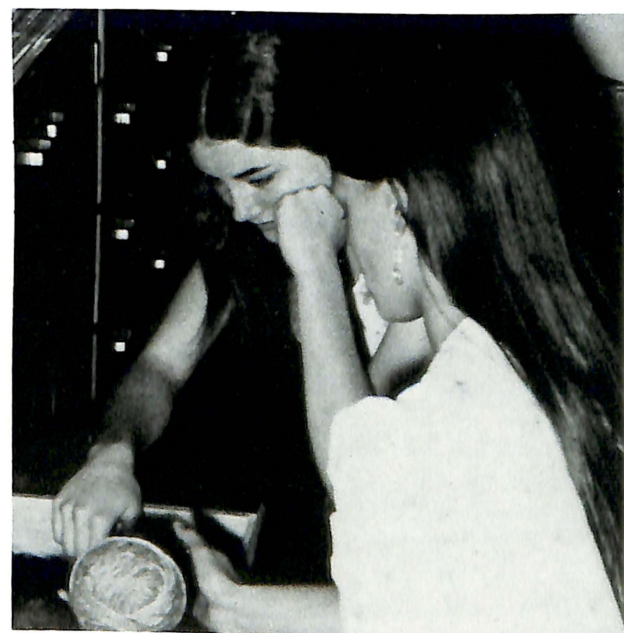

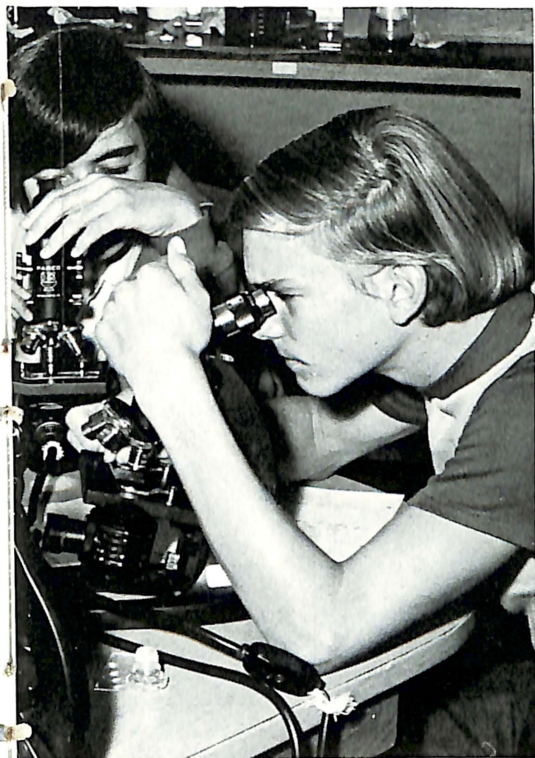

*Sail our ships out on the open sea,
Cast away our fears, and all
The years will come and go,*

*And take us up, always up,
For we may never pass this Way again...*

A NEW BEGINNING

After he had journeyed
And his feet were sore
And he was tired,
He came upon a grove of trees
And he rested
And he sat in the cool
And while he rested
He thought of those he angered
For he was not a violent man
And he thought of those he hurt
For he was not a cruel man
And he thought of those he frightened
For he was not an evil man
And he understood.
He understood himself
Upon this he saw that
When he was of anger or knew hurt or felt fear
It was because he was not understanding
And he learned compassion
And with his eye of compassion
He saw his enemies like unto himself
And he learned love,
Then, he was answered.

An end... and a new beginning

The 1973-74 school year has been filled with many radical changes both in the school and the world. This has been a year spent in education and growth. Times have changed and so has the La Mezcla. We hope that the students like these changes and that in the years to come this book will bring back many cherished memories of days at Armijo.

The biggest and most noticeable change is the artwork, for which we give special thanks to Sandy Abalos and Ted Gracyk. To the others on the staff who have given many endless hours to the production of this book THANK-YOU.

There are many people who go without credit for their part in this book and to those Thank-you.

A yearbook is nothing without pictures of the events as they happened. Mr. Nenni and his staff have provided us with very high quality pictures and dependable services, which over the years have been greatly appreciated. Thank-you.

On behalf of the La Mezcla staff we would like to express our gratefulness to Mr. Day. Putting together a yearbook takes many endless hours of work, without a creative, strong and dedicated advisor quality and consistency cannot be maintained. Mr. Day is this type of advisor. Knowing him is quite an experience in itself. Thanks for everything.

Of course there is always someone who must take the blame and correct mistakes in any company. Mr. Minkin, our representative from Yearbook House, is one of these people. He has come to our rescue more than once this year. Thank-you Mr. Minkin.

As this book ends another way of life begins. For some it means being a grade higher, for others it means facing a totally different world of hardships and happiness.

Where ever you will be we wish you all the joy and success possible.
